Frequently Asked Questions

What is the Teen Arts Festival?

A one-day event for teens to showcase their artistic capabilities through a variety of mediums. The festival is an opportunity for students to collaborate with their peers and learn from professionals in the field through student critique and workshops.

Where does the festival take place?

The festival is an indoor-outdoor event. The Levoy Theatre (126-130 N. High Street Millville, NJ 08332) is the host of the event. Performances and the information center is based out of the Levoy Theatre. Workshops, Pop-up events and the Visual Arts Exhibit will take place in various locations down High Street within a four-block radius.

Can anyone attend the festival?

Students, ages 13-19, are welcome to register as an individual or with their school. Registration and participation in at least one critiqued, "adjudicated," event is required to participate.

Does it cost anything to register?

Yes, please see the Participation Fee section of the website for further information.

Do I win anything at Teen Arts?

Knowledge, creativity, collaboration, and the opportunity to advance to the NJ State Teen Arts Festival. You may only advance to the State's Festival if selected at the County level.

What is the second festival date, "Showcase Ceremony?"

Two weeks after the festival culminates, we celebrate with a Showcase Ceremony at the Levoy Theatre. Parents, teachers, general public, and press are all invited to attend! If selected, an invitation will be sent to you or your school following the event.

How many students can I bring?

The number of students will vary depending on the adjudication categories you will be participating in. Please see the Adjudication section of the website for further details.

What types of workshops do you offer?

We offer a wide variety of workshops. From graphic design and photography to surfboard shaping and tattoo. Workshops change every year and will be available for sign-ups prior to the festival.

What can I do if I am in between workshops and performances?

That would be a great time to grab lunch or check out one of the many Pop-up events. Pop-up events do not require pre-registration and offer a nice filler for any student in between activities. In years past pop-ups included pyrography, open mic, scratch art, clay creations and more.

What about food?

Glad you asked! The festival contracts with local food trucks and the restaurants on High Street to offer $5 Meal Deals for the day's event. If you have specific dietary concerns or prepaid school lunches, you are welcome to brown bag and sit at any location you find comfortable.

So, what is the process for signing up?

- 1st- Submit an Intent to Participate (January)
- 2nd- Register your student(s) for adjudication (March)
- 3rd- Select your workshop(s) (April)
